Mrs. Roberts UDC Speaker

The Appomattox Chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy, was entertained on last Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Harry Davis and Mrs. Walter Scott at the home of Mrs. Davis.

Mrs. William Allen Roberts, of Chase City, daughter of the late Confederate leader, Thomas S. Bocock, spoke on the subject, "Living Confederate Principles." She said, in part.

"General Lee realized that he was going into a well-night hopeless struggle but his determination never wavered. He said, 'We have sacred principles to maintain and rights to defend for which we are in duty bound to do our best even if we perish in the endeavor.'

"What were these principles and rights? They were the principles upon which this Union was founded - the principles of free and representative government and the principle of self-determination or state right. These were the principles which determined the stand of the South. The issue over them submitted to the arbitration of arms was the cause for which we fought. This right of secession had been declared and asserted everywhere throughout the Union from the making of the Federal Constitution to the eve of the war for Southern independence. Sixty-five years after the war a Republican President declared repeatedly that the doctrine of state rights is essential to the preservation of the Union. This is the liberty of the American people and is certainly a living principle for which the Confederate soldier fought."

Editor Takes Time For Tourists

Calvin Robinson, editor of the Times-Virginian, tries to practice what he preaches when it comes to being hospitable to tourists. Last Friday morning he was rather late getting away from Appomattox to make his weekly radio broadcast at 12:30 from Station WWOD, Lynchburg. Nevertheless, when he saw a stranger pulling over a tourist map just outside of town, he turned, pulled up beside the out-of-state car and offered his services. The tourists were Mr. and Mrs. T. Panski, and three children, from Des Moines, Iowa. Their map said they should be at historic Appomattox, and Mr. T. Panski said the map indicated there was some sort of park near here - so Ye Editor told them what to see at Old Appomattox and how to find it. Then he persuaded them to head on to Restored Williamsburg and advised them how to get ideal accomodations there. The family was overjoyed at getting tips on what to see in Virginia, but declared they had promised their three children all the way across America that they could set their feet in the Atlantic Ocean —so Ye Editor told them about Virginia Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Panski promised to set their car radio on 1390 at 12:30 for Mr. Robinson's broadcast. If they did they heard the Appomattox County Reporter discard his manuscript for the last four minutes of his broadcast and urge all Virginians to set out the welcome mat for tourists - tourists like Mr. and Mrs. T. Panski, of Des Moines, Iowa.

Price Support Program Is Explained

With the price of most grains down to or below government support levels, R. B. Bridgeforth, state chairman of the Production and Marketing Administration, this week urged Virginia farmers to consider the advaltages of government price support programs before selling their crops at current market prices.

Bridgeforth said that price support loans are offered on seven commodity loans and purchase agreements on 1949-crop wheat, oats, barley, and rye, available to producers from the time of harvest through January 31, 1950. Loans will be made on farm or warehouse stored grain and will mature on April 30, 1950, or earlier on demand. Farmers who do not need the ready cash may be guaranteed price support by signing a purchase agreement. Under the purchase agreement plan a farmer must declare his intentions of selling to the government during the month of April, 1950. Under either plan the farmer pays a small service fee.

The support price on all grain but wheat is based on a percentage of parity as of April 15, 1949, and the support prices are constant throughout Virginia. In the case of wheat an interim support rate, based on April 15, 1949 parity, is used pending determination of the final rate, based on June 15 parity to be announced after July 1, 1949. The support price on wheat in Virginia varies slightly by counties. Eligibility requirements for the various grains and the basic support rates are as follows. The basic rate is subject to certain discounts or premiums for grade variations.

To be eligible for loan or for purchase under purchase agreement, wheat must grade U. S. No 3, or better, or grade No. 4 or 5 solely on the factor of test weight, but otherwise grade No. 3. The basic 1949 interim loan rate for wheat grading U. S. No. 1 in Virginia varies by counties from $2.11 to $2.21 per bushel. The interim rate in Appomattox County is $2.16. The final rate for wheat will be determined at 90 per cent of June 15 parity.

Under the support program oats must grade U. S. No. 3 or better. The loan rate for No. 3 oats, figured at 70 per cent of parity, is 79 cents a bushel.

Barley to be eligible must grade U. S. No. 5 or better. The 1949 loan rate of barley grading U. S. No. 1 is $1.24 per bushel, which is 72 per cent of parity. Terminal market loan rate on barley of No. 1 grade is $1.43 at Baltimore.

Interested grain producers may get further information from the local county agricultural conservation association.

Flash flood Tuesday afternoon in Lynchburg covers some spots.

Sealed bids on Town of Appomattox Water System Bonds were opened at 3:00 P. M., on Tuesday, at a called meeting of town officials. The low bid on the $80,000 in bonds was submitted by the firm of C. F. Cassell & Co., of Charlottesville. The town accepted the low bid and will pay an interest rate of 2.40%. This is considered a very favorable interest rate and speaks well for the credit rating of the town.

Seven bids were submitted for purchase of the bonds, as follows: Strader, Taylor & Co., Lynchburg; Scott, Horner & Mason, Lynchburg; Anderson & Strudwick, Lynchburg; C. F. Cassell & Co., Charlottesville; F. W. Craigie & Co., Richmond; Bank of Appomattox, Appomattox, and Petersburg Savings & American Trust Co., Petersburg.

The bids ranged from the low interest rate of 2.4 to the high of 2,8 per cent. Premiums offered in connection with the bids made the offers even more attractive to the town.

The bond issue was authorized by voters of the town in an election held June 14. The money will be used to purchase the privately owned water system and to expand the water service.

The town will open bids tonight from contractors bidding on a new 100,000 water tank, to be constructed on Route 460, adjacent to the Appomattox Garment Co. plant. It is expected that a contract for the new water tank will be awarded at this time.

Objectives Of Appomattox Safety Council

As previously reported the Appomattox Safety Council was organized on April 19, having been set up according to the Governor's State-Wide Safety Council Program.

The council desires to urge all motor vehicle owners and drivers to exercise care and safety in the operation of their vehicles.

Life and property are involved every moment a vehicle is in motion and the council wishes to point out that accidents have increased to a point where the loss of life and property is at the highest level in history.

The plans of the council are to awaken the public to the seriousness of traffic accidents and to do this through education and publicity and through its committees on engineering and law enforcement, along with close cooperation with the state Police Force in apprehending careless drivers.

After the adoption of the above program the council unanimously passed a resolution requesting each member to observe traffic violation, and further in cases of a minor violation being observed the observer will report such violation to the council and the council will have a letter written and mailed to the violator pointing out the seriousness of his conduct and the need for caution and safety.

It further decided that in cases where a serious violation was observed that the matter be reported to the State Police for proper handling in line with other traffic violation.

The objective of this program, it was announced, is for the sole purpose of encouraging and promoting safe driving.

It was also voted by the council to request that the clerk of all the courts of Appomattox County publish the names of each person convicted and the violation involved and the sentence of the court.

The council invites all interested citizens to join with it in its objectives and to join the council and attend the regular meetings which are held the third Thursday in each month at the court house at 8:00 P. M.
